Dear Friend,

A wise schoolteacher friend of ours is famous for the advice she shares with every student: "Keep reading—because the more you read, the bigger your world will be." We think she's exactly right! Even in our high-tech information age, there's no substitute for the way novels expand our vision by empowering us to see through others' eyes.

This spring, you can walk alongside Amish farmers as they puzzle over how to handle a string of suspicious barn fires in Lancaster Burning (page 6). Or you can face a class full of underprivileged children with a brave young Canadian teacher (Janette Oke's Where Courage Calls, page 10); venture inside the Civil War-era White House with Mrs. Lincoln's Rival (page 14); or even travel to the Holy Land to witness the Last Supper in the Thoenes' Jerusalem Chronicles (page 11)! No matter which direction you go, these titles are sure to expand your world—and your heart.

Happy reading!

Christine

NEW! Beverly Lewis

The daughter of a "modern" pastor in Amish country, Beverly Lewis grew up surrounded by the rolling green hills of Lancaster, Pennsylvania—the inspirational backdrop for many of her best-selling stories for children and adults. She and her husband, David, make their home in Colorado, where they enjoy hiking, biking, and playing with their three grandchildren. They're also avid musicians and fiction "bookworms."

Dear Friend,

I'm delighted to share with you The Last Bride, the final book in my Home to Hickory Hollow series of stand-alone novels. You'll be drawn in by Tessie Miller and her beloved beau, Marcus King. Deeply in love, the pair decides to marry with or without the blessing of Tessie's stern father—even if it means slipping away to the modern English world to elope.

But their secret marriage and plan to win Tessie's parents don't go as planned, placing Tessie in a situation she could never have foreseen.

You will enjoy revisiting Hickory Hollow and its endearing characters, including Ella Mae (the Wise Woman), Mary Beiler, and Tessie's dear cousin Emmalyn Lapp.

Blessings,

Beverly Lewis

Home to Hickory Hollow Series

Coming April 1!

SAVE $32 on the series

Love never follows the same rule twice in Beverly Lewis's beloved Home to Hickory Hollow series!

The youngest of her Old Order parents' five daughters, 19-year-old Tessie Ann Miller is also the only one yet to marry. But she doesn't intend to wait too much longer! She has her heart set on Amishman Marcus King. And come wedding season, they want to tie the knot and start a family together. But Tessie's father, Ammon, refuses to let them marry without offering an explanation—bringing the couple's plan to a screeching halt.

Tessie can't understand how Dat can be so unreasonable! In no way does she intend to yield to her father's suggestion that Levi Smucker is a better match for her. Doing so would only lead Tessie down the same road as her sister Mandy—who ultimately acquiesced to their father's wishes and sacrificed marrying the beau she loved for a man she didn't.

Impetuously, Tessie and Marcus decide to take matters into their own hands. They elope in order to exchange their vows in the fancy, English world. After a secret—albeit brief—honeymoon, they return to their Plain community to live as singles until they can convince the Millers to give their love a chance. But as the weeks of private trysts and public distance drag on, the newlyweds begin to realize this strategy will be much more difficult than they first thought. Frustrated, Tessie wants nothing more than for everybody to know that they are husband and wife. But Marcus insists that the time still isn't right.

Meanwhile, Tessie's sister Mandy is doing the best she can in her unhappy, childless marriage to Sylvan. As she focuses her energy on opening a gift shop for tourists, she finds herself distracted by her youngest sister's suddenly unpredictable behavior. Reminded of her own courting days with beau Norm, she worries that Tessie is continuing to see Marcus despite their father's opposition to him.

As wedding season nears, Tessie's patience thins—and even Marcus admits they can't wait much longer to make their news known. Then Tessie stumbles onto some secret papers her father has been keeping—ones that involve Marcus! Has she found the reason behind his refusal to let them marry?

But when the unthinkable happens, she's left facing the biggest challenge of her life—and the almost-certain censure of her loved ones and community.

Will The Last Bride in the Miller family find a reason for hope in spite of her desperate plight? 352 pages each, softcovers from Bethany.

Amish Vines and Orchards Series

SAVE $18 on the series

Brothers Samuel and Jacob King and gifted agriculturist Rhoda Byler have worked hard to establish an orchard and Amish community outside of Unity, Maine. But now their common dream is in jeopardy because of an impossible situation. The love of the two brothers for Rhoda forces her to make a soul-wrenching decision. And when she chooses Samuel, Jacob must pick up the pieces of his shattered life and move on without her. Can he ever forgive Samuel for winning Rhoda's heart—or Rhoda for no longer returning his affection?

But the survival of the community isn't the only thing at stake. Rhoda's English neighbors, Bob and Camilla Cranford, are depending on her gift of intuition to find their missing daughter-in-law and grandchild. Perhaps handsome Amish neighbor Crist Schrock is the answer to her heartache.

When Yellow Bird's husband dies suddenly, Buck agrees to escort the women to the Oregon Territory. For every mile they travel, Amanda falls more in love with Buck—but she refuses to be married to an unbeliever. Will Buck find the Lord—or is Amanda to remain single? Plots and Pans

The ability to follow orders—his orders—is the #1 job requirement for anybody working on cowboy Tucker Carmichael's ranch, or joining his cattle drive. From long experience, he knows that on the Chisholm Trail a moment's hesitation can mean death. So when his partner's headstrong sister, Jessalyn, claims her birthright and joins their team, he's more than a little skeptical.

Jessalyn's been wild since her youth. She may be grown up and beautiful now, but no one is likely to forget the day when—at 12 years old—she attempted to ride a bucking bronco, leading to grave injuries and a one-way ticket to a proper British boarding school. Before Jessalyn's father died, he charged Tucker with the responsibility of keeping his daughter safe. But how is Tucker supposed to do that when she insists on accompanying him on the trail?

Deep down, he can't help admiring the girl's spirit, but clearly the years haven't stolen her knack for "sweet-talking her way into disaster," and if anything happened to her—or his men—he'd never forgive himself. Will Jessalyn's reckless ways prove to be Tucker's undoing? Or could the two learn to share the trail—and maybe a lifetime, too? 320 pages, softcover from Barbour.

Love Comes Calling

Dreaming of becoming an actress, Boston socialite Ellis Eton captures Griff Phillips' attention. But while filling in for a look-alike friend at the telephone exchange, she overhears a call that threatens Griff's safety. This story reminds me of a classic "gangster" movie. The period details of speakeasies and flappers are colorful; the heroine is less ingénue and more girl-next-door; the hero is handsome and principled; and the plot features corrupt politics, old-money blue bloods, bootlegging thugs, and mistaken identity. Ellis's theatrical antics and Griff's integrity in the face of danger make them quite a dynamic duo in this entertaining matinee escape!

Father Knows Best on TV, children free to roam the neighborhood, dime-store comic books . . . it's easy to romanticize America in the early 1960s. In this nostalgic read, Walsh tempts us to do just that—and then makes us think again! Drawn into one family's crisis, we encounter a quagmire of complex realities—including a fractured marriage, a crumbling family, and a culture on the brink of nuclear war. Surprisingly hopeful, it'll leave you looking up—not back!
