Dear Friend,

Christmas is coming, which means "Joy to the World" for everybody—and just a little extra merriment for fiction lovers! Here are a few tunes we're humming at CBD:

 "Dashing through the snow in a one-horse Amish sleigh . . ." Sound like fun? Join the revelers on page 8!*

 "I'm dreaming of a niiiice sequel . . ." You can scoop up the next titles in your favorite series on pages 19–21.*

Looking for something a little more "hark and herald-y"? Try Kingsbury's brand-new Angels Walking on page 10 or Kinkade's Angel Island on page 39. And even if you have just a few "ha'pennies" to rub together this year, you can still stuff stockings with the sweet bargains on page 17. Whatever you choose, we pray the stories in this catalog make your fall a little "fa-la-lalier." In the meantime, "We wish you a Merry Christmas"—and a happy, well-read year!

Christine

NEW! Jan Karon

Jan Karon built an award-winning career in advertising—but at the age of 50, she quit her job and moved to the village of Blowing Rock, North Carolina, to write books. "I stepped out on faith to follow my lifelong dream of being an author," she says. Jan now lives in an 18th-century Virginia farmhouse, and has a grown daughter who is a photojournalist and musician.

The Mitford Years Series

Mitford, North Carolina, will always be "home" to Father Tim. But now that he's back from Ireland—and retired from the ministry—it feels a little odd. He's not sure why he's so bothered. Is it just jet lag that's making him restless? Or the fact that his ultra-fit friend, Hoppy, is "retiring" to embark on a valiant second career as a missionary doctor in a famine-ridden country? Maybe it's because his wife, Cynthia, is insisting that he attend Hoppy's retirement dinner in a borrowed tuxedo, because his old one doesn't fit . . . or because his beloved dog, Barnabas, is slowing down . . . or because some numbskull in the Mitford Muse accidentally printed his name as "Father Time." Cruelest of all, it could be because his new health regime permits him to drown his sorrows in only half a pint of Ben & Jerry's!

Confiding in Cynthia, he mulls the problem. What was really wrong was . . . he felt tears in there somewhere. "I've lost something," he said, swallowing down the knot.

"Like?"

"Like . . . passion." It was hard to use that word, which was so often overused, but there it was. "Like . . ." He closed his eyes. "I feel useless," he said, humiliated to confess this, even to her.

"Feeling useless is a good thing."

He had no comment on such ridiculous thinking.

"There have to be rest stops in music. There must be winter for the roots of a plant to dig down and grow strong for spring. There . . ."

"Please," he said.

"You do this at least once a year, ever since you retired. In fact, you just did it in Ireland! And I drag out all my homilies and metaphors and somehow we manage to push on."

Ultimately, it's clear to Father Tim's head (if not his heart) that their family, and the town, need them. In Somewhere Safe with Somebody Good, Dooley is contemplating marriage, and his brother Sammy is struggling with anger. Meanwhile, bookstore owner Hope is suffering through a difficult pregnancy. Can Tim rally his spirits and help those he loves?

Cynthia suggests, "Do us both a favor and give yourself a break. Let's have a rest stop before the next fanfare." But will the "fanfare" ever really return? Approx. 360 pages each, from Viking/Penguin.

Days of Redemption Series

As a winter Snowfall blankets Sugarcreek, the Keims and their Amish neighbors experience the joys of faith, family, and love.

Lovina Keim agrees to care for the Rhodes kinner while their widowed father, Martin, works on his Christmas tree farm—but she soon discovers that they're a handful! Surrounded by six unruly children, she can't handle the commotion, but she knows who can!

Twenty-year-old Ruth Stutzman is struggling after she's laid off from work. When Lovina encourages her to help Martin with his rambunctious brood, she isn't sure she's right for the job. She was an orphan, so she's had no experience with children. But as she reads stories, plays games, cooks delicious meals, and nurses the children through chicken pox, she wins their hearts. Her cheerful presence lifts the shadow of sadness from the Rhodes household, and Martin can't help but feel drawn to the spirited young woman.

As the family grows fonder of Ruth, Christmas approaches, and with it the end of Ruth's stay. She can't deny the bond she feels—especially with Martin. But when her former employer offers to hire her back, she's torn. Should she leave or remain with the first real family she's ever known? 256 pages each, softcovers from Avon Inspire.

Return to Sugarcreek Series

SAVE $15 on the series

Return to the beloved Amish setting of Sugarcreek—with all-new characters and romances!

Playing "parent" to his younger siblings, Randall Beiler is doing his best to put his family's needs first. He even breaks up with his longtime girlfriend, Elizabeth Nolt, to focus all his attention on the farm. But despite his best efforts, he knows he needs help keeping the house and caring for his siblings.

When Randall's younger brother Levi offers Elizabeth a job as their part-time cook and maid, Randall is furious! But then he learns that Elizabeth and her grandmother are struggling financially, and he knows that it's the right thing to do. Elizabeth wants to refuse Levi's offer, but money is too tight. As she begins work at the Beiler home, she realizes that her heart still belongs to Randall.

One day while at his construction job, Randall falls off the roof of a house and breaks his leg. Confined to his bed, he's nursed back to health by a reluctant Elizabeth. Will he finally find a way to tell her how he feels? Or will he keep silent?

Joyful is the third installment in Shelley Shepard Gray's Return to Sugarcreek series! 256 pages each, softcovers from Avon Inspire.

NEW! Karen Kingsbury

Karen Kingsbury began her writing career as a sports reporter for Los Angeles newspapers. She has authored over 50 books—10 of which have been #1 on national bestseller lists—with titles that include true-crime accounts, collections of real-life miracle stories, and Christian fiction. Karen lives in Nashville with her husband and six children, three of whom were adopted from Haiti.

Angels Walking

Somewhere in heaven a decision has been made. An Angels Walking team has been assigned a desperate task involving a broken baseball player and the true love he left behind. If these two people give up on faith, love, and each other, then a child who will one day change history will never be born. Let the mission begin!

After making a series of mistakes with alcohol and women, minor league baseball star Tyler Ames has fought hard to win back the favor of his fans. But then just one pitch away from his first-ever perfect game, he incurs a season-ending shoulder injury. When the team cuts him—and refuses to pay for his surgery—Tyler hits rock bottom. Homeless and broke, he's forced to sleep in his car. And consumed with anger, he turns to his prescription pain pills for comfort.

Meanwhile back in California, Tyler's one true love, Sami Dawson, has tried to move on since Tyler chose to pursue baseball rather than her all those years ago. After graduating from UCLA—which she and Tyler had planned to attend together—she accepted a job at a well-known Los Angeles marketing firm and has been dating a lawyer for several years. But if she's really honest with herself, Sami's devastated every time she sees headlines parading Tyler's mess-ups across the Internet. And as much as she convinces herself that she's happy with her current beau, she can't really see herself living in Arnie's politics-driven world for the rest of her life.

When a series of small miracles leads Tyler to a maintenance job at a retirement home in Pensacola, Florida, he strikes up an unexpected friendship with Virginia Hutcheson, a widow with Alzheimer's disease who believes that Tyler is her deceased son. Could this elderly woman actually provide him with the advice he so desperately needs?

Can the seemingly insignificant actions of angelic agents Beck and Ember restore hope and faith to Tyler, Sami, and Virginia? Will the words of a stranger rekindle lost love—and faith—for two people living on opposite sides of the country?

When angels walk, most people never take notice. But they are there! And sometimes the stakes are so high all of heaven stands ready and waiting—as Karen Kingsbury demonstrates in the first installment of her new series. 384 pages, hardcover from Howard.

When Mercy Rains

At the tender age of 17, Suzy Zimmerman confesses to her mother, Abigail, that she's with child. Enraged and filled with the shame of her daughter's indiscretion, Abigail sends her away from their Old Order Mennonite community in Kansas to family in Indiana. What she doesn't know is that the 9-month visit will extend for nearly two decades!

Years later when Suzanne comes home from her nursing shift at the hospital, her 19-year-old daughter, Alexa, hands her a letter. Reading it, she discovers that Abigail has had an accident and has lost the use of her legs. Since Suzanne is the only one in the family with any medical experience, her siblings ask her to return. Unable to say no to their request—or Alexa's insistence that she come along—she reluctantly agrees.

Determined to find a replacement caretaker as quickly as possible and keep Alexa's past a secret, she brushes off her family's accusatory glances and questions. But when widower Paul Aldrich realizes that he might have a daughter, will Suzanne's web of half-truths finally catch up with her? And can Abigail open her heart to the daughter she sent away—and the granddaughter she's never known? 352 pages, softcover from Waterbrook.

Dangerous Darlyns Series

When it comes to riding, shooting, roping, knife-throwing, and archery, no man can best the Dangerous Darlyns from the Dakota Territory! Cultivating abilities that some say are improper for women, sisters Bea, Cassia, Ariel, and Jess keep their talents under wraps—until Pa encourages them to show off their skills. The way he figures it, any man with less than honorable intentions will be put off by uppity females who think they can beat men at their own game.

Pa's plan works with one exception—Mr. Huber, the unscrupulous town banker. He's determined to foreclose on the Darlyn property and force Bea into an indecent relationship. His vile scheme is disrupted when Greyson Wilder and Miles O'Conall ride into TallGrass.

Escaping a troubled past in Chicago, the handsome Grey and the fatherly Miles are only passing through. So Grey isn't prepared when saucy sharpshooter Bea hits the mark of his lonely heart. Nor does he cotton to Huber's greed and crude innuendoes. When Huber proposes a shooting contest to decide the foreclosure, both Bea and Grey accept the challenge. Will they save the family's farm—or lose everything?

The Bowers Files

Special Agent Patrick Bowers's specialty is environmental criminology—analyzing the "when" and "where" of FBI investigations. In Checkmate, an explosion rips through an undercover federal building leaving several of the best profilers in the nation wounded or dead!

The Bard had set the stage perfectly. The bomb and his trail of clues are drawing Bowers into his "story," but getting the other characters will require a more personal touch. Snatching Corrine Davis, he keeps her out of sight until she'll be needed, but will he be able to convince his final actor to participate? Either way, he's sure this is going to be the best tale he's ever told.

After decoding a series of cryptic messages, Bowers is on a flight to Charlotte, North Carolina, where he discovers that hundreds of pounds of military grade explosives have disappeared and that the city is built above abandoned gold mines. He can't fathom the potential devastation. Even more unimaginable, his old adversary, Richard Basque, offers to help him—but at a price. Can Bowers work with his cannibalistic nemesis? And if so, what is he willing to sacrifice to stop the Bard's plot? Approx. 450 pages each, softcovers from Penguin/Revell.

Three private investigators who were burned playing by the rules get a second chance! In Deceived, Kate Marshall loses her 4-year-old son, Kevin, and her husband when their fishing boat capsizes—but she's not convinced it was an "accident." Her husband's body is found without a life vest, and the police simply presume her boy drowned even though his body was never recovered.

Three pain-ridden years later, Kate pulls her life together and moves to St. Louis to work as a counselor for battered women. Cruising the mall, her heart stops when she hears a boy use a word that was unique to Kevin. Looking around, she spots a child who looks just like her dead son—but then loses him in the crowd. She decides to hire private detective Connor Sullivan, who doubts her claims but is willing to do some preliminary investigating if it will give her some peace of mind. Despite his skepticism, he can't deny the fact that something is amiss—and he must admit he enjoys working with this beautiful, kind client. When she's not writing, she's often found distributing food and books to the needy or working with literacy outreach programs. She lives with her husband, daughter, and two dogs in a small village on Long Island Sound—very much like Cape Light!

Thomas Kinkade's Cape Light Series

Welcome back to the twinkling New England town of Cape Light—and the folks who call it home! In All Is Bright, a box of old photographs takes Reverend Ben Lewis back to 1978. Newly called to Cape Light, he feels ready for the job—until a scandal tears the church apart. Prominent cannery owner and church member Oliver Warwick is arrested for siphoning off funds from employee pensions to save his failing business. Struggling to win his congregation's respect, Ben finds himself at odds with members who believe Oliver is getting what he deserves. Can Ben teach them about compassion and forgiveness—and overcome his doubts about his calling?

Meanwhile, as her father reflects on the past, Rachel Anderson faces the future. After the death of her husband, she's struggling to make a life for herself and two children. Things look up when Ryan Cooper takes over as coach of her son Will's basketball team. As Ryan and Rachel grow closer, Will becomes angrier—nobody can ever replace his father! When Christmas approaches, Rachel stands at a crossroads. Will she listen to her son's objections and break up with Ryan, or continue to date the man she loves? Approx. 300 pages each, from Berkley.

The Secret of Pembrooke Park

Coming in November!

Forced to sell their London home, Abigail's family agrees to care for a long-abandoned manor house. When they arrive at Pembrooke Park, they're startled to find it entombed as it was abruptly left—complete with abandoned teacups, toys, and closets of moth-eaten clothing! There are rumors of a secret room filled with treasure. Could they be true? 416 pages, softcover from Bethany.

RJ212780 Hardcover 19.99 13.99

Like the rambling 15th-century English manor house that serves as the setting for this cozy, multilayered romance, Klassen's Jane Austen-esque tale is furnished with elements that look deceptively noble, polished, and "upper crust"—concealing unexpected twists, turns, and a cobweb-cloaked mystery that will keep you eagerly turning pages! Can you unlock Pembrooke's secrets before Abigail does? A formidable challenge for architecture buffs and armchair detectives!

Lizzy & Jane

Coming October 28!

After her mother's death, teenage Lizzy runs away from home. Working tirelessly, she becomes the head chef of her own New York restaurant. But when she discovers that her sister, Jane, is battling cancer, she returns to cook healthy meals for her. One tragedy drove her away—will a second help heal old wounds? 336 pages, softcover from Nelson.

RJ689730 Retail $15.99

CBD Price $11.99

Rich with full-bodied characters, mouthwatering cooking ventures, and the "daily grind" details of living through cancer treatment, Reay's story satisfies on every level. She offers a compelling portrayal of how illness can either splinter or heal relationships. And you'll love the references to classic literature as the two sisters become reconciled to themselves and each other. Mixing profound themes with romance and humor, it's a delicious treat!

Recommended

Whisking you off to the Greek isles, Bunn draws you into a suspenseful adventure amid the country's chaotic economic crisis. You'll be caught up in a frantic search for smugglers, the tension of a romantic triangle, the beauty of the Aegean Sea, and the mystery behind a centuries-old artifact. And through it all, you'll be warmed by how one woman's faith becomes a beacon that guides others to God.

Authors

William Paul Young

Raised by missionary parents among a stone age tribe in what was New Guinea, William Paul Young possesses a unique perspective on spirituality and life that he explores in his writing—and his debut bestseller, The Shack, is no exception. This self-proclaimed "accidental" author makes his home in Oregon with his wife, Kim. They have six adult children and five grandchildren.

The Shack

When Mack Philips's youngest daughter, Missy, is abducted during a family vacation—and later presumed murdered—he thinks life can't get any worse. Then he receives a note, supposedly from God, inviting him back to the scene of the crime. If he returns to the place of his darkest nightmare, will he find despair—or hope? 248 pages, softcover from Windblown.
