Dear Friend,

Ever notice how the months after New Year's seem a gazillion times longer than any other stretch of the year? Early spring (known here in New England as "Winter, Part Two") can feel like a slushy, dreary, cold marathon. So until the puddles recede and the temperature rises, we're counting on this crop of sunshiny hot-off-the-press novels to chase away the chill!

For instance, the ground has already thawed outside the Amish Pinecraft Pie Shop (page 9)—and we can't wait to see what Hope plants in their new community garden. Journalist J.B. Collins is white-knuckling it across the sun-scorched Middle East, trying to rescue the president in Joel Rosenberg's The First Hostage (page 11). Hot-tempered Serena Jones is keeping warm, chasing art thieves in A Fool & His Monet (page 27). And in windswept coastal Maine, Colleen Coble's Mallory is solving a mystery under a Mermaid Moon (page 80). Whose story will you follow? Choose a soul-warming destination and story—and join us as we spring into adventure!

Happy reading,

Christine

Karen Kingsbury

Karen Kingsbury began her writing career as a sports reporter for Los Angeles newspapers. She has authored over 50 books—10 of which have been #1 on national best-seller lists—with titles that include true-crime accounts, collections of real-life miracle stories, and Christian fiction. Karen and her husband have six children, three of whom were adopted from Haiti. She lives in Nashville, Tennessee.

Angels Walking Series

Heart-tugging stories of divine intervention! In Brush of Wings, terminally ill Mary Catherine begins work at an orphanage in Uganda. Rather than wait any longer for a heart transplant, she's determined to pursue her calling during the time she has left on earth. But she hasn't told her family or her friend Sami about her worsening medical condition. And the man she loves, major league baseball player Marcus Dillinger, is totally bewildered. Why would Mary Catherine so abruptly cut off their relationship, he wonders?

In heaven, the angel team assigned to Mary Catherine's case has an entirely different perspective:

The first angels entered the room. . . . Orlon straightened himself. "You know why you're here. I've been alerted by Michael that the Father is ready for the final stage of this great mission—the one involving Tyler Ames and Sami Dawson, Mary Catherine Clark and Marcus Dillinger. You remember that ultimately a baby's life is at stake, a baby who will be a very great teacher. His name will be Dallas Garner, and he will turn the hearts of the people in the United States back to God, the Father." . . . Orlon turned and faced the angels again. "There was a time when Christ-followers in the United States were an example of love and truth for all the world." He felt the heaviness of the mission ahead. "Today people have strayed from the truth. Dallas Garner will help return a generation back to it." He paused. "If he is born at all."

The angels know that not all missions succeed. Will they be able to intervene and preserve Mary Catherine's destiny—before her heart gives out? Approx. 350 pages each, hardcovers from Howard.

Dear Friend,

In Hebrews 13:2, the Bible reminds us to show hospitality to strangers because "some people have shown hospitality to angels without knowing it." That verse reminds me of a situation that happened in my family.

It was summer 2007, and my dad suffered a massive heart attack. My mom and my 11-year-old nephew were the only ones home at the time. Andrew called 9-1-1, and the operator walked him through performing CPR on my dad for the next 19 minutes. By the time paramedics rushed in, my dad was blue and unresponsive.

A police officer hurried into the house and asked my mom, "Ma'am, do you believe in Jesus?"

"Yes!" my mom frantically replied.

The officer didn't hesitate. "Then we need to pray that the power that raised Lazarus from the dead will breathe life into your husband right now, so that your grandson won't grow up thinking this was his fault."

The officer took my mom's hands in his and prayed. At the very moment when he said, "In Jesus' name, amen," the paramedic cried out, "We have a heartbeat!" My dad lived another nine weeks.

My mom wanted to thank the officer. She contacted one police department and then another, but no one had ever heard of him. He simply did not exist.

That story reminds me that God is at work in our lives—even when we don't know it. This was the reason I wrote the Angels Walking series, and it's the reason I know you will absolutely love this last book.

Love and blessings,

Priscilla Herschberger has been courted by Elam Schrock for over a year now without any talk of marriage, so she's nearly given up hope that he'll ever propose to her. When she witnesses a motorcycle accident involving David Morgan, an English friend she hasn't seen in some time, she decides to visit him while he recovers from his injuries. Before long, she realizes that she truly cares for him. Though David talks about joining the Amish church, Priscilla's not sure how serious he is—the transition would be very difficult to make after being raised in the modern world. But if he did make the decision to become Plain, she wonders if she'd be interested in him as something more than just a friend.

Meanwhile, Elam—who has loved Priscilla since childhood—resents David for capturing Priscilla's attention. When his jealousy gets out of hand, will one hurtful act forever alter these three young lives? Or will forgiveness be offered—and feelings of love and trust revived?

The Amish Millionaire Series

A new 6-parts-in-6-months serial novel! Joel Byler, The English Son, is a general contractor who left the Amish life at 18. He loves the luxuries his family spurns, especially the cars he collects and restores. When he spots a rare classic, he spends the joint savings he and Kristi Palmer have set aside for their wedding, assuming his father, Eustace, will give him more.

Eustace Byler is known as "the Amish millionaire" because of the money he's made from oil wells on his land. He hopes that Joel will come back home. But with Joel's next request for a loan, The Stubborn Father draws the line—and their rift is left unhealed.

When Joel finally shares the truth about his Amish past and the squandered funds with Kristi, she feels deceived, and as The Betrayed Fiancée, she questions their relationship.

Each value-priced installment of this series by Wanda and Jean Brunstetter will be released 30 days after the previous one, so you don't have to wait for answers about what happens next! Approx. 128 pages each, softcovers from Shiloh Run.

NEW! Beverly Lewis

The daughter of a "modern" pastor in Amish country, Beverly Lewis grew up surrounded by the rolling green hills of Lancaster, Pennsylvania—the inspirational backdrop for many of her best-selling stories for children and adults. She and her husband, David, make their home in Colorado, where they enjoy hiking, biking, and playing with their grandchildren. They're also avid musicians and fiction "bookworms."

Dear Friend,

It's a special honor to share some of the inspiration for my new stand-alone novel with you.

Prior to writing The Shunning, I considered including bits and pieces of my own love story with David Lewis (co-author of Child of Mine*), eager to feature the rustic footbridge in the Colorado mountains where our marriage proposal took place. So the picturesque bridge in this book's Lancaster County setting is not only a romantic symbol for me, but it also becomes a pivotal place for my leading lady, Lucy Flaud, whose spiritual eyes are opened to God's gift of forgiveness through the love story of an unlikely Englisher couple. This devout couple has celebrated the anniversary of their engagement for many decades at their picturesque footbridge, and their lives model the Savior's redeeming love.*

My prayer is that this tender story will touch your heart in a truly beautiful way!

Beverly Lewis

Coming March 29!

More by Beverly Lewis on pages 78 & 79.

The Atonement

Lucy Flaud stopped attending activities for young people of courting age years ago. Haunted by mistakes in her past, the 25-year-old Amish woman has given up any hope of marriage and instead does her own private penance by volunteering in her hometown of Bird-in-the-Hand and other Plain and fancy communities in Lancaster County. In addition to her volunteer work, she assists her married sister as a mother's helper. So her days are full, and that's the way she likes it. At least it keeps her from dwelling on her troubled history and feeling sorry for herself because she doesn't have a husband.

Christian, Lucy's daad, is also trying to move beyond heartache. Seeking the help and comfort of a Mennonite grief support group, he meets young Englisher Dale Wyeth, who's recently lost his beloved father after spending a year helping his mother care for him. Dale and Christian bond in their sorrow. Christian is impressed by Dale's willingness to make sacrifices for his parents. And Dale not only appreciates Christian's willingness to listen but also admires his simple Old Order Amish lifestyle. Dale confesses that he distrusts modern-day "advances" and longs to be more self-sufficient by going off the grid.

To Dale's surprise—and his own—Christian impulsively invites the young man to visit his family's farm to learn more about "life without electric." But he wonders if he's done the right thing. After all, he has three unmarried daughters at home. And the last time he took such a risk . . . well, he doesn't want to think about the result.

As Dale's visits become more frequent, he and Christian form a father-and-son-like rapport. And Lucy is intrigued by the young man's kindness and eagerness to learn about their Amish ways. But what good can come of such an attraction, especially considering her previous failings? The Ordnung would never permit her to have a relationship outside the church. Does a woman in need of redemption even deserve to find true love?

In The Atonement, Beverly Lewis weaves a beautiful tale of love and forgiveness as she explores the possibility that God can lead even the most unworthy heart to a new beginning. 352 pages, softcover from Bethany.

On January 1, 2000, Kathleen Fuller—a former special education teacher—kicked off the new millennium by starting a brand-new writing career! Over 25 novels and novellas later, she's still writing . . . much to the delight of her fans. Kathleen and her husband have three children, three dogs, and a cat. They make their home in Geneva, Ohio.

The Amish of Birch Creek Series

Joanna Schrock has loved Andrew Beiler most of her life—ever since he protected her from playground bullies. And almost a decade later, he seems to feel the same way as they start to date.

But when a horrible accident takes her parents and leaves her barely able to walk, all Joanna's emotions become tangled, numb, and confused. Andrew can't still love her broken body and mind, can he? It must be pity that makes him insist he does.

In fact, Andrew's love for Joanna has grown even stronger now that he realizes he nearly lost her. So when he visits the hospital, he'll do anything to return the sparkle that's missing from her eyes. Thinking it will make her happy again, he proposes and she half-heartedly accepts.

But when Joanna returns home to her sisters Sadie and Abigail, everything seems different—and her feelings about marrying Andrew are more jumbled than ever.

When the police unexpectedly come to the Schrock homestead with news that the driver who caused the accident has turned himself in, will Joanna finally be able to forgive herself and offer An Unbroken Heart to Andrew?

Discover the answer in the second book in Kathleen Fuller's The Amish of Birch Creek series! 320 pages each, softcovers from Nelson.

NEW! Marta Perry

Marta Perry lives with her husband in a century-old Pennsylvania farmhouse. The author of over 35 inspirational novels, she says her Pennsylvania Dutch roots led her to write about the Plain People. When she's not writing, you may find her visiting her beautiful grandchildren, helping at church, or escaping to the beach with a new novel and a blissful expression!

Keepers of the Promise Series

Barbie Lapp isn't sure if she wants to stay Amish. When she's at her job at an Englisch café and pictures herself in the role of a Plain wife, she's filled with dread.

So when her grandmother gives her an heirloom dower chest filled with a lifetime of mementos of her family, she's torn by the implications. As the beloved matriarch of the family tells Barbie the stories behind each item, they form a larger tale of the fear she herself faced when she moved away from everything familiar in Lancaster County. But will her Grossmammi's memories help Barbie see her own life more clearly?

Benuel Kauffman is a strict local pastor, young widower, and single father who strongly disapproves of Barbie Lapp's flirtation with Englisch ways—and longs to make an example of her. But when Barbie helps his intoxicated teenage sister return home safely after seeing her in danger at a local bar, the situation becomes complicated.

As their lives become entwined, Ben finds himself attracted to Barbie. Is God trying to teach him something? Or are these feelings a sign of weakness to be resisted?

Before writing inspirational fiction and romances full-time, Shelley Shepard Gray was a teacher—having earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in education. Aside from writing, she loves to cook and is active in her church and its ministries. A native of Texas, she currently lives in southern Ohio with her husband. They have two children.

Charmed Amish Life Series

When tragedy strikes the Amish village of Charm, Ohio, will the water of God's forgiveness quench the flames of grief? The answer may depend on whether A Son's Vow can be fulfilled!

Three months ago, the world came crashing down for post office worker Darla Kurtz when her father was responsible for a fatal lumber mill fire—and somehow, she inherited the blame.

Victims' relatives seize every chance to vent their bitterness:

"You have a lot of nerve, getting a job here," Mary said as she slapped a ten dollar bill on the counter. "It's bad enough that your family stayed in town. Most folks would have left in shame after what your father did."

Darla responds by turning the other cheek. But how long can that go on?

Complicating Darla's heartbreak is the fact that another victim's son—Lukas Kinsinger—was once her childhood crush and closest friend. Battling his own grief, Lukas has little energy to spare. But when the community's anger spills over onto Darla, he knows he can't simply stand by and watch.

As Lukas and Darla revive their friendship, their love is rekindled, too. But will it be accepted by their neighbors? And if the town can't forgive, what then? 288 pages, softcover from Avon Inspire.

She and her family live in California.*

The Bishop's Family Series

Coming in March!

The Stoltzfus family faces serious challenges—in church and at home. Amish minister David is struggling with an impossible dilemma. He suspects that fellow pastor Freeman Glick rigged his appointment as bishop of Stoney Ridge—a serious sin. When David confronts him, Freeman claims he's done nothing wrong, insisting that he knows that God has called him to lead the church. Now David must decide whether to write to nearby bishop Isaac Bender for advice—or leave the situation alone. If he does contact Isaac, he risks exposing the church to scandal—and subjecting Freeman to The Quieting, stripping him of his ordination.

Meanwhile, David's mother, Tillie Yoder Stoltzfus—known to her family as Mammi the Meddler—breezes into town, determined to find suitable matches for her widowed son and eligible granddaughters. But Freeman's exuberant, enthusiastic nephew, Dane, has already set his cap for David's studious, logical niece, Abigail. They're as opposite as fire and ice—and Abigail is way too focused on her genealogical research to think about love. But when she uncovers explosive information about a Glick ancestor, she needs Dane's help. Will her discovery destroy Freeman, the church, and her budding relationship with Dane? 352 pages each, softcovers from Revell.

Bodie and Brock Thoene have written numerous bestsellers, including The Twilight of Courage and The Saga of the Sierras, The Zion Chronicles, The Zion Covenant, and The Shiloh Legacy series; and have won eight ECPA Gold Medallion Awards for fiction. The Thoenes have four grown children and eight grandchildren. They divide their time between London, Hawaii, central California, and Nevada.

Jerusalem Chronicles

See the events of Scripture anew through the lens of the Thoenes' masterful reimaginings of gospel stories in the Jerusalem Chronicles!

The son of a carpenter and a man of peace, Jesus becomes a threat to the livelihood and authority of the priesthood. He is seen as impeding Herod Antipas's ambition to be the king of the Jews. And to the Roman overlords, he poses danger—a man who has the power to command an army of common people. There's talk of him healing wounds, offering miraculous provision, and even raising people from the dead! How could this man—who preaches of righteousness before God and love and mercy toward neighbors—become so hated and pursued?

In Behold the Man, Jesus' last days are told through the eyes of three people: Governor Pilate, for whom Judea will either make or break his career; Pilate's wife, Claudia, who desperately seeks healing for her crippled son; and centurion Marcus Longinus, who's caught between his loyalty to the Roman Empire, his love for Claudia, and an ever-increasing belief in the Son of God.

When each of them encounters Jesus, will they ever be the same?

The First Hostage

"The president of the United States is missing."

With these words spoken to his New York Times editor at the beginning of The First Hostage, journalist J.B. Collins—reporting on an ISIS attack in Jordan—puts the entire world on high alert.

There was a long pause.

"What do you mean, missing?" said the crackling, garbled voice on the other side of the world.

. . . "I mean missing, Allen. Gone. Lost. No one knows where he is."

. . . Amman's gorgeous new international airport was ablaze. Thick, black smoke darkened the midday sun. Bodies were everywhere. Soliders. Policemen. Ground crew. And an untold number of jihadists in their signature black hoods.

Bleeding from a gunshot wound as he looks out over the devastation, Collins can hardly believe that the remains of an Israeli-Palestinian peace summit is in flaming ruins, the would-be comprehensive treaty thwarted, and Air Force One apparently in the air without the president. But he can't argue with the facts staring him in the face. With threats of further chemical warfare and world war looming, can Collins and the Secret Service join forces to locate and rescue the leader of the free world—before the terrorists' goals become a catastrophic reality?

NEW! Terri Blackstock

Terri Blackstock began her writing career in 1982 and became an award-winning romance novelist with 32 published titles. But several years ago, she decided never to write another thing . . . unless it glorified the Lord. Since then she has published more than 30 best-selling Christian novels. Terri makes her home in Mississippi, where she and her husband, Ken, are enjoying their empty nest after raising three children.

If I Run

Casey Cox didn't kill her best friend Brent. She discovered his body, but she'd never try to hurt him. He's the only person she's every trusted enough to tell the truth about what she believes really happened to her father—a loving family man and excellent policeman whose death was ruled a suicide a little too quickly. And there's no doubt in her mind that Brent was killed because he stumbled across clear evidence that it was indeed a homicide.

But she's got Brent's blood on the bottom of her shoes, in her car, and on her clothes—and she has no idea whom to trust in the police force. So she has no choice but to run. Smart and determined to stay alive, she dyes her hair, hops from bus to bus, doesn't stay too long in each city, gets a fake driver's license, and uses cash for all her purchases. But will it be enough?

Meanwhile, a former childhood friend of Brent's, Dylan Roberts, is hired by Brent's parents to find Casey and bring her back so that justice can be served. As a former criminal investigator for the army, he can't imagine that tracking down one girl will be that difficult.

But the more elusive Casey turns out to be, the more Dylan digs into her past to try to determine what she might be thinking. What he finds there doesn't fit the profile of a killer at all. She's unlike any other fugitive he's ever encountered. When the police refuse to discuss any other possibilities, Dylan senses that there's something more going on in this situation. After discovering that the woman who works in the police department's evidence room met with Brent right before his death, Dylan shows up at her house to see what she knows—and finds more twists.

Reaching out to Casey's sister, Dylan hopes to get word to Casey that he can be trusted. But will it work? Will she choose to trust him? Or will his search for the truth only result in getting more people—including Casey and himself—killed?

As Casey tries to stay one step ahead of everybody who's after her, she wonders: will she be vindicated—or will she have to stay a fugitive for the rest of her life?

Beyond the Silence

Raised in wealth and privilege, Lillian Porter decides it's time to discover her purpose in life. When she accepts a position as a nanny in faraway Angels Camp, California, her curmudgeonly grandfather is infuriated and disowns her. But her faith in God never wavers as she leaves the past behind and looks forward to the new life that awaits her.

As Lillian steps off the stagecoach at Angels Camp, she wonders if she's made the right choice. There are rumors in town that her new employer, successful olive grower Woodward Colton, killed his wife and that his 7-year-old son, Jimmy, hasn't spoken since he witnessed his mother's death. Has she come all this way to work for a murderer?

Putting her fears aside, Lillian tries to help Jimmy move Beyond the Silence that traps him, hoping that one day he will tell her what happened. She also forms a bond with Mrs. Goodman, the Coltons' warm-hearted housekeeper who believes in Woody's innocence. Woody seems to love his son deeply. Could the kind man she's come to know really be a cold-blooded killer? Can Jimmy find his voice in time to save them all from another tragedy? 352 pages, softcover from Bethany.

Kings Meadow Series

Sixteen-year-old Penny Cartwright is devastated when her mother dies from pneumonia. Now 12 years later, she and her elderly father are burying her younger brother, Brad. She was heartbroken and angry when Brad announced that he was going to leave Kings Meadow for Nashville to join Trevor Reynolds's country band. His departure strained their brother/sister bond. Then their separation became permanent when he died in a car accident. Full of bitterness and sorrow, the last thing Penny needs is to be reminded of her pain—but that's exactly what happens when a stranger comes to town.

Trevor has been chasing fame for more than a dozen years, but he just can't seem to get his musical career off the ground. After Brad's death, Trevor blames himself—even though he wasn't behind the wheel—and so does Penny. Now he's in Kings Meadow to keep a promise to his late friend, but it isn't easy when Penny barely tolerates him. Can she let go of resentment and open her heart to forgiveness—and possibly love?

Sugar Maple Hearts Series

On a winter's afternoon in 1877 Berrytop, Wisconsin, teenagers Bo Garrett and Elly Sullivan carve their initials on a tree trunk and declare their undying love for each other. Elly promises to marry Bo on one condition—that he never become a pastor. She's had enough of loud harangues about a judgmental God. Bo agrees but says he needs to get away "for a while" to see the world.

Seven long years later, Elly has given up on her childhood beau and is being courted by handsome cattleman Gideon Long. He once asked her to be his wife, but she got cold feet a few days before their wedding. Gideon doesn't give up easily, and they plan to head to the altar again.

Then one day she hears a rumor. Bo's back, and he's a minister! When the two meet, neither can deny that the spark between them still smolders. But their years apart have taken a toll. Bo's broken promises and misspent youth are hard for Elly to forgive—even though he's rededicated his life to God. And then there's Gideon.

Phillips lives with his wife, Judy, in California. They have three grown sons.

Secrets of the Shetlands Series

Amidst the rugged coastline of Scotland, past and present collide in Michael Phillips's Secrets of the Shetlands series!

The unexpected death of the clan patriarch has thrown the tiny community of Whale's Reef into turmoil. Everybody assumed MacGregor Tulloch's heir would be his grandnephew David, a local favorite. But when it's discovered that MacGregor left no will, David's grasping cousin Hardy submits his own claim to The Inheritance—an estate that controls most of the island's land. Hardy doesn't have much popular support, but he does have the backing of a shadowy group of North Sea oil investors. While the competing claims are investigated, the courts freeze the estate's assets, leaving many of the residents in financial limbo. The future of the island—and its traditional way of life—hangs in the balance.

Meanwhile, Loni Ford is enjoying her rising career at a large investment firm in Washington, D.C. Yet in spite of her outward success, she's privately plagued by questions about her identity. Orphaned as a young child, she was raised by her paternal grandparents. And though she loves them dearly, she feels completely detached from her roots—until a mysterious letter arrives from a solicitor. Could she be descended from an old Scottish family?

Siri Mitchell
Flirtation Walk

Determined to escape her father's reputation, Lucinda Curtis heads to West Point, New York, to land a husband from the famed military academy. But will it be Campbell or Seth? One is head of his class; the other is determined to finish last and be sent west to find the man who ruined his family. 384 pages, softcover from Bethany.

JF210389 Retail $14.99

CBD Price $9.99

With fleshed-out characters, natural pacing, and sparkling dialogue, Mitchell is at her best here! She tells a great story and that would be enough for any reader . . . but she also provides a fascinating glimpse behind the walls of this historic institution. Her trained eye and ear for details of the Army lifestyle and a fun sense of 1850s adventure create a palpable impression of time and place.

Ashley Royer
Remember to Forget

Coming in March!

From a member of CBD's family!

Ever since the tragic death of his girlfriend, Levi has refused to speak. In desperation, his Australian mother sends him to live with his father in the United States. But even a global move doesn't make much difference until Levi meets Delilah—a girl who reminds him of the one he lost. 304 pages, hardcover from Blink.

JF751717 Retail $16.99

CBD Price $12.49

How does somebody re-enter "normal life" after a traumatic event? Is it disloyal to feel happy again? Royer's strikingly authentic story of grief and healing features teen characters who text more readily than they talk and chuckle about their parents' exasperation with technology—yet retain the anxious vulnerability of young people in every generation. Restoration comes through professional counseling; the patience of a flawed-but-loving family; and the transformative power of true friendship. An insight-packed read for older teens and adults!

Sit, Stay, Love

Pro baseball pitcher Cal Crawford isn't a dog guy. When he inherits his mom's canine companion, Tippy, he's quick to call a pet-sitter. Out-of-work teacher Gina isn't happy taking the job, and she's even less thrilled with Cal—who has all the charm of a wet towel. Will an elderly pooch bring two lonely hearts together? 224 pages, softcover from Harvest.

JF966078 Retail $9.99

CBD Price $8.19

Get ready for a lesson in love, Tippy-style! This tail-wagger of a story charms with the big-dog appeal of its small-dog star. All her humans need redemption, and she's just the one to save the day. No one is left untouched by the sacrifice and dedication—and Facebook popularity—of this rebound hound. Just goes to show that we all need each other, two- and four-legged creatures alike!

Angela Hunt
Risen

A gripping novel based on the major motion picture! Tasked with the responsibility of guarding Yeshua's tomb, Roman tribune Clavius knows he's answerable to Pilate. So when Christ's body disappears, he'll stop at nothing to identify the "thief." Will his investigation unearth answers that shake his beliefs—and all of history? 320 pages, softcover from Bethany.

JF218453 Retail $15.99

CBD Price $9.99

Epic in scope yet deeply personal! Hunt offers a unique perspective on the resurrection by capturing the very real reactions of two non-believers in their encounters with Christ. With deftly rendered pacing and development, she uses the biblical events to set the scene and movement for their journey of faith. Enhanced by portraits of the disciples and scriptural references, this uplifting story reflects our Christian relationship with the risen Savior.

How can an overprivileged businessman in the world's wealthiest country suffer from a parched spirit and a shriveled conscience—while in materially "poor" Nicaragua, others rejoice with much less? Martin's thoughtful insights illuminate this gently paced romance—notable for its male protagonist in a genre often dominated by female lead characters. His genuine affection for the people and country of Nicaragua shines on every page.

Charles Martin
Water from My Heart

Left to survive on his own as a teenager, Charlie grows up fast—earning a scholarship to Harvard and learning to survive on the outskirts of privileged society. But when his streetwise East Coast business sense leads to disastrous consequences for a faraway mother and child, will a trip to Nicaragua soften his jaded heart? 352 pages, softcover from Center Street.
