Welcome

Dear Pastors,

These days pastors don't read enough and they don't dream enough. I hope you'll never stop reading and never stop dreaming.

With a lifetime of full-time ministry under my belt, I have to say that I've never felt this more strongly than I do today. While God can use anyone, He'd rather not use a dry well, and while God expects you to be faithful in the little things, He'd rather you always have a vision for more.

Of course, your reading and your dreaming must always be rooted in God's eternal word. His word must flow effortlessly through in your lips, and it must have roots down deep in your heart. God's word is your surest inspiration, but don't let your reading end there.

I remember the words of Spurgeon: "the man who never reads will never be read; he who never quotes will never be quoted. He who will not use the thoughts of other men's brains, proves that he has no brains of his own. You need to read."

Even the Apostle Paul, while dreaming of winning the world, didn't miss the opportunity to learn a little more. From prison he asked Timothy to bring him his books (2 Tim. 4:13).

The Gospel According to John

D.A. Carson

Rather than focusing on word studies and Greek syntax, Carson concentrates on the flow of the text of John's Gospel and its movement of thought. He discusses how it contributes to biblical and systematic theology; offers a consistent exposition of it as an evangelistic Gospel; and addresses authenticity and purpose. How to Choose a Bible Study

Why start a small-group Bible study? Ask any of the thousands of believers who already gather in coffee shops, college dormitories, and living rooms worldwide. They'll tell you . . . the benefits of studying God's Word together are endless! Not only will you strengthen bonds of fellowship and friendship within your church, you'll find that "where two or three are gathered in Christ's name," Scripture comes alive in wonderful new ways. Your group will be empowered not just to better understand and remember God's Word, but to act on it as well!

How can you choose the right curriculum? As in all things, start with prayer—and ask the Holy Spirit to guide you in your decision. Some practical issues to consider: What ages and stages of life are represented in your group? Would you prefer a verse-by-verse, in-depth study of Ephesians, or a topical study that addresses a life issue—like child-raising or stewardship? Will you have a designated teacher or share leadership? (Many resources have built-in helps that allow any member to facilitate the study.) And what format will work best for your group? Do you thrive on interactive workbooks and lively discussions, or are you visual learners, inspired by powerful teaching on DVD?

When you're ready to begin . . . You'll find everything your small group needs, right here at CBD! Start by browsing the terrific selection in this catalog, but remember, this is just the tip of the iceberg. You'll find thousands more affordable and unforgettable studies online at Christianbook.com. May you be blessed as you dig ever-deeper into the riches of God's Word!
